Practice Overview

After several years' practice at the criminal and family bar in London, Ann moved to the West Country in 1997 since when she has specialised exclusively in family law. She has a wide ranging practice covering all types of children's work and financial relief. Her work ranges from difficult care cases to analysis of business accounts upon divorce. She has experience in the higher courts. Recent care cases have involved allegations of factious illness against the mother of a child who has an accepted medical condition, successful return of children in NAI cases where no perpetrator has been identified, as well as appearing in a wide range of care cases.

Financial Remedies/Ancillary Relief

In financial relief cases, she deals with disputes involving companies and commercial property as well as farms and cases needing analysis of accounts and expert reports. Her work ranges from difficult care cases to analysis of business accounts upon divorce. She has experience in the higher courts.

Private Child Law

In the private law field, she frequently accepts instructions from grandparents [including one case where the client had been accused of kidnapping the child involved], in cases to remove from the jurisdiction, and where due to parental resistance to contact, a change of residence is contemplated, [or as in one recent case, both].

Care & Adoption

Recent care cases have involved allegations of factious illness against the mother of a child who has an accepted medical condition, successful return of children in NAI cases where no perpetrator has been identified, as well as appearing in a wide range of care cases.
